Get creative this summer at Sunbury

Now is the time to unleash your creative spirit at Sunbury Shores! This summer, we are offering a wide variety of weeklong and weekend classes and workshops in visual art, traditional crafts and nature for adults, teens and children taught by artists, scientists and naturalists from across the region and the country.

Courses include watercolour, oil and acrylic painting, pottery, sculpture, rug hooking, etching, felting, birding, lichens, photography and more. Whether you are an absolute beginner or a seasoned expert, we have a course that's right for you.

For all the details, come in to 139 Water Street in St. Andrews and pick up a copy of our course brochure, or visit www.sunburyshores.org and get ready to say, "I can do that!"

Nature comes alive at Sunbury Shores

"The least movement is of importance to all nature. The entire ocean is affected by a pebble."

-Blaise Pascal

Volunteers Geoff Slater, Andrea Mulder-Slater, Robert Van de Peer, Jan Mulder and summer student Christmas Caskenette have created a nature room at Sunbury Shores. The new room houses rocks, bones, minerals, shells, books, magazines, posters and other natural science research materials. Visitors are welcome to visit the space, sit down, relax and study up on their favourite land or sea creatures. The room is located just down the hall from the exhibition gallery on the main floor.

In addition, the back kitchen area has been transformed into a library/studio featuring art books, magazines and exhibition catalogues.

Introducing our summer students

This year at Sunbury Shores we are delighted to have two wonderful students working with us during the months of July and August.

Christmas Caskenette is enjoying her second year as a summer student at Sunbury Shores and is planning to attend UNB to study Geology.

Ashley Crichton is our newest summer student. She is enrolled at the New Brunswick College of Craft & Design.

Both young women are tremendous additions to the Sunbury team, working in the office and assisting with the children’s program. We hope you have a chance to drop in and say hello to them this summer.

“My kids can do that!”

Kids ages 5 –12 can get creative at Sunbury Shores this summer!

Courses include: Drawing and Painting, Clay Sculpture, Nature Twig Journals, Marbled Paper, Mobiles, Acrylic Painting, Dioramas and Self Portraits.

Faith Fowler, BFA is our children’s art instructor. Fees (for members) range from $70-$85.
